Look a little closer

The Anne Frank House preserves the place where Anne and others hid during the Nazi occupation. The rooms and interpretation ask for attention to individual lives within the history of persecution. This is a memorial visit, not simply a canal house interior. Read the official booking and accessibility information, including the constraints of the historic building.

Something to notice

Allow time for quiet reflection. Consider the difference between seeing a room and understanding the life lived there.

A little consideration

Follow visitor and photography rules, leave objects and historic surfaces untouched, and give other people room.
