Look a little closer

Superkilen turns a sequence of outdoor spaces in Nørrebro into a landscape of color, objects and everyday activity. Its design draws connections beyond Copenhagen, but its value also lies in how local people use it. Walk through without interrupting play or recreation. Street furniture and surfaces are part of a public place, not a private photo set.

Something to notice

Notice how a ground pattern changes your sense of movement through the space.

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.
