Look a little closer

Calton Hill brings monuments and broad views into a compact elevated landscape. The city's stone streets, coastward outlook and surrounding hills can be read from different points along the permitted paths. The approach includes slopes or steps, and wind changes the experience. Individual buildings or events have separate access rules; public viewpoints are not climbing structures.

Something to notice

Compare a columned monument with the skyline beyond. Which lines repeat at a different scale?

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.
