Look a little closer

Alfama unfolds through stairways, small squares and close-set buildings on Lisbon's hillside. Its association with fado is part of a wider neighborhood life of homes, shops and shared streets. Begin around Largo do Chafariz de Dentro and explore a modest area. A public walk is different from a booked performance or a visit inside a monument.

Something to notice

Listen from a public place. Notice how a stairway changes the scale of the street.

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.
