Look a little closer

Buckingham Palace is a working royal residence with a recognizable frontage facing the Victoria Memorial. Exterior viewing and ticketed interior visits are different experiences. The surrounding public spaces let you notice the composition of gates, building and avenue without relying on a ceremony taking place.

Something to notice

Compare a detail in the gates with the building behind them. Notice how the forecourt organizes the view.

A little consideration

Keep shared paths clear, follow barriers and staff directions, and pause only where it is safe to do so.
