Look a little closer

The Empire State Building rises above Midtown with a stepped silhouette and distinctive spire. The observatory turns Manhattan into a pattern of avenues, blocks and river edges. Before looking into the distance, notice the building itself and the details that make its architecture recognizable.

Something to notice

Find a straight avenue, a patch of green and a river edge. Sketch how the city changes between them.

A little consideration

Keep shared paths clear, follow barriers and staff directions, and pause only where it is safe to do so.
