Facts checked 2026-10-12

Look a little closer

The 9/11 Memorial occupies the footprints of the former Twin Towers. Falling water and inscribed names create a place of remembrance within Lower Manhattan. The outdoor memorial and the museum are different visits. Give this place time and let consideration for others shape your experience.

Something to notice

Listen to the water and look at the names with care. Leave room for silence and personal remembrance.

A little consideration

Keep voices low, respect mourners and memorial names, and follow staff guidance. Avoid treating the site as a photo backdrop.
