Look a little closer

Montmartre's lanes and stairways offer a village-like rhythm above the city. The area around Place du Tertre and Sacré-Cœur is well known, but smaller streets reveal everyday neighborhood life. Allow for slopes and crowds, and make room for residents going about their day.

Something to notice

Look at a corner rather than a postcard view. Notice a shutter, a stair rail or a worn patch of paving.

A little consideration

Keep paths and doorways clear. Respect residents, use marked crossings and ask before photographing people closely.
