Look a little closer

Prague's Old Town Square gathers façades, church towers and civic monuments around an open public space. Look beyond the astronomical clock to the different rooflines and ways streets enter the square. The clock's moving display is only one small part of the setting. Town Hall interiors and tower visits require separate arrangements.

Something to notice

Find three different roof shapes. Which building seems to address the square most directly?

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.
