Look a little closer

Letná's elevated parkland gives a broad perspective on Prague's river and bridges. The view is part of a larger public landscape used for walking and everyday recreation. Choose an open path suited to the weather and ground conditions. Cafés, events and other facilities follow their own arrangements, and steep approaches are not the same as a level riverside walk.

Something to notice

Trace the bridges along the river. Notice where the skyline changes from stone to trees.

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.
