Look a little closer

The San Bernardo cable car connects its lower station in Parque San Martín with the hilltop complex above Salta. At the summit, viewpoints and landscaped terraces reveal the city’s setting, while the operator’s gardens and artificial cascade add places to pause between the outward and return journeys.

Something to notice

Confirm current operation before travelling; keep your return journey and the operator’s latest departure information in mind.

A little consideration

Follow boarding instructions and keep children close around platforms and viewpoints.
