Look a little closer

Quadrilatero Romano offers compact streets, small squares and cafés within Torino's historic center. Traces of the city's older fabric sit beside present-day neighborhood life. Choose a short walk and look at doorways and street corners, remembering that the area is more than a visitor backdrop.

Something to notice

Notice where one street opens into a square. Look for a small detail that makes the transition feel different.

A little consideration

Keep paths and doorways clear. Respect residents, use marked crossings and ask before photographing people closely.
