Look a little closer

The Hundertwasserhaus gives a residential building an unusually colorful, planted exterior. Look from the public street at the changing window shapes, surfaces and vegetation. This is a home for residents, not a walk-through museum. Nearby visitor spaces and the Kunst Haus Wien are separate destinations; respect private entrances and keep the pavement clear.

Something to notice

Find a place where a plant interrupts a hard architectural edge.

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.
