Look a little closer

Habitat 67 presents a distinctive arrangement of concrete residential units beside the Saint Lawrence River. From a permitted public viewpoint, compare the repeated modules with the changing spaces between them. The building remains a place where people live.

Something to notice

Choose one repeated shape and follow how it combines with others. Keep cameras away from private windows.

A little consideration

Stay on permitted public paths, leave entrances clear and respect residents, workers and other visitors.

ADDRESS

2600 avenue Pierre-Dupuy

VISITING

Public exterior visit only; follow posted access restrictions and respect residential or working uses.

This guide covers the public exterior setting; interior visits and activities are separate.

GETTING THERE

On arrival

View the complex from a permitted public position along Avenue Pierre-Dupuy. The 2600 address identifies the buildings; do not enter residential areas without an authorized tour.

Check current official notices before visiting.
